farce follows the almost unbelievable story of country golf in the saltbush sun. We throw the rule book out in this celebration of balls, buggies and bogies alongside a biting satire of Australian identity, ambition and good old fashioned greed & ambition. We follow the golf-tragic couple Dorinda & Travis Divott as they transform the desolate desert into a golfing Garden of Eden and build a country golfing empire centred at the most remote golf course ever built. Bunkered down in their corrugated iron clubhouse their pull out all shots to bring the Golfing World to Saltbush Downs to get a whiff of saltbush, whack a little white ball, have a few beers and stay a while in the sun... Visit Saltbush Downs and you may never want to leave....

This has been a project a long time in the making. Keith Preston has been active for the last 30 years as a musician, puppeteer, arts coordinator, festival director, songwriter and world music developer. Prior to this period however he was an actor/writer/director of theatre which included indi-music theatre, mainly youth and community theatre and rock& roll political satire. He had eight scripts produced in the 1980's. He also worked as a junior golf professional, U/21 State golfer/ Simpson Cup and pennant player.

Thanks to Covid isolation finally the script he has been planning for years has been completed and drafted for a brand new musical comedy-satire using the theme of golf in The Outback. It is the story of the Saltbush Downs Open Golf Classic Bringing together a satire on sport, the Australian identity and history, corporate greed, and human stupidity and ingenuity Saltbush Downs has a plot set in a mythical golf club located deep in remote Outback South Australia that somehow rebrands itself as the 'original home of world golf', "Saltbush Downs" is a fast-moving musical cabaret slapstick comedy with a set of nine original songs. Think Rocky Horror meets Faulty Towers set in an outback golf course...

Nine theatre/cabaret songs are in a range of styles: ballad/cabaret/country/comedy/folk/pop format. The show runs for 90 minutes, We will have a short interval.

Saltbush Downs is definitely in the Fringe tradition...A totally unique kind of satirical musical and a number of other highly regarded and experienced Adelaide actor/musicians are part of the Saltbush Downs Team. It will be mounted in the 2021 Adelaide Fringe. While it will be presented as a Fringe Production our view is that it will be received really well by fans of comedy/cabaret/theatre and music. On top of this we believe that there could be a market for taking this production to Golf (and other) Clubs around Australia (and beyond) as a small cast touring production, creating valuable performance work for five SA artists.
